

Marco Selects World Beauties

Not every country offers beautiful women. Each nation has women to offer, but tastes vary. Each country looks at its own women with eyes trained through habit.

Many world beauty contestants go home said, disillusioned and bitter. Therefore, I have originated the most perfect world-wide woman competition.

Every contestant goes home a winner, perfect in the category in which she is a champion.

I hereby offer the first ten categories and announce the winners of each. You may add additional categories and name your own selections.

MOST BEAUTIFUL. This prize goes to the Chinese women, who are mysterious, exciting, sexy, colorful and money-mad—a magnificent combination in any language.

MOST CONGENIAL. No woman in the world is able to match the Japanese women for sheer loveliness and ability to make a man and home happy. Ask the man who owns one.

LEAST PERSONABLE. The British entrant wins this with almost no competition. Smug, self-centered and usually dowdy, they have good qualifications for the "least personable" award.

MOST NOTHING. Anyone representing the Philippine women would win this award hands down. I have yet to see a Filipina who radiates beauty or personality.

UGLIEST. The women of Tahiti. Indeed, it takes quite a few months of being deprived of the company of other females to consider Tahitians beautiful. But to them goes a special award: the Miss Happy award, because in spite of their ugliness they do manage to make a man feel happy, special and uninhibited.

BEST POTENTIAL. The women of Germany. Not very bright, unfashionable to say the least, but with a great deal of effort they could be quite attractive.

WORST DRESSED. The women of France. Although the fashions of the world originate there, French women are sloppy holdouts as far as fashion is concerned.

MOST UNPREDICTABLE. The Korean women. One minute they're the butter-won't-melt-in-the-mouth type and the next minute they're full of fireworks. The trouble is, one never knows in advance which minute is coming up next.

DO-WITHOUT AWARD. The winner this year is Miss Watusi. In her natural habitat the dance may look good, but in the declining disclotiques it merely looks sweaty and clumsy.

MISS SPOILED-ROTTEN AWARD. Annually this award would go to the American girls, who look alike, think alike, are too energetic, too athletic, too untalented, and too undressed.

But there's hope. They could easily fit into any one of the other categories mentioned. With a bit of effort.

Ann Landers Says

Skip Those Kooky, Pen-Pal Romances

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl almost 16 and in love with a boy I've never met. We've been writing to each other for six months. Rollie is in the Navy. We started to correspond when my cousin who is his bunk-mate showed him my picture.

Please don't be like my mother and tell me I'm too young to be in love. I've read all about love and this is it.

Rollie and I agree on everything, right down to the brand of toothpaste we like best. The only thing we don't have in common is religion. We can solve this problem later.

Rollie gets his leave in a few months and he wants to come out here to make my acquaintance. We are thinking about getting married. I can finish school later. Please give me some encouragement. My mother goes wild when I bring up the subject. — WISHING AND HOPING

My cousin brought over a list which covered three countries.

Will you please say something in your column about this? Perhaps people who ask such favors aren't really aware that the customs allotment is $100 per person.

Then there is the expense of excess weight on planes, not to mention the time and energy required to go hunt up the articles. Thank you. — ANNOYED

Dear Annoyed: The bold and brassy—ever ready to impose—will always be with us.

If your wife can't say "no" to these clods she gets no sympathy from me. Let her pay the excess weight, wear out her shoes and spend her vacation time shopping. Real friends don't ask such favors.

them—specifically for five or six days—at Christmas. Period. I see no reason for people to have guests often or for longer periods than they want them.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Penny for your Thoughts

At North High this week, the Pennies photographer asked several students, "Do extra-curricular activities interfere with academic work?"

Amy Kawaguchi, 18901 Prairie Ave.:

"No, I don't think so. The only reason kids go out for extra activities is that if they don't have them, they don't enjoy school. I think extra activities help keep us interested. The kids who are active don't drop out of school."

Carol Tierney, 2007 W. 180th St.:

"No, extra activities don't hurt academic work. Our studies are finished before we get involved with our activities. School spirit comes from the activities and school spirit is needed, but academic work is of prime importance."

Janice Moore, 18514 Haas Ave.:

"No, if a person wants to be active in school, he has to participate. As a student, he should keep his grades up while he participates in activities. School spirit is important and the extra activities help to build school spirit."

Kris Peterson, 16923 Osage Ave.:

"I don't think that activities are overemphasized at all. Most people I know in school are very active in the extra events and they are most all on the honor roll. They are the kids who care about school and keep their grades up while doing things for the school."
